SSE Leaders Luncheon: Climate

Monday, 7 December 2015, 11:00-15:00
Hotel Peninsula, 5 Avenue des Portugais, Paris, France

This December in Paris, world leaders will gather for the UN climate summit (COP21) to complete a new global agreement. This summit caps a year that has seen numerous momentous international breakthroughs, from the G20 pact on climate policy to the China-USA Joint Presidential Announcement on Climate Change. As climate plays an increasingly prominent role in the development of investment policy and regulation, it also has a growing impact on capital markets, investors and corporations. COP21 will set the stage for a new generation of global climate change policies that will influence markets for years to come.

How can capital market leaders help to deliver the forthcoming climate change agreements in Paris? How will these agreements shape capital markets in the coming years? This peer-to-peer CEO summit will provide a platform for addressing climate challenges and opportunities and sharing views on the path forward.

Hosted by Mirova and Natixis, this United Nations event will welcome an exclusive group of C-level participants from stock exchanges, institutional investors, and listed companies joining public policy leaders from international organizations, national governments and regulatory bodies.

There are only 45 participants for this exclusive executive session. Please contact tiffany.grabski@unctad.org immediately to reserve your space. There is no fee for this United Nations event, but spaces are limited and participation is by invitation only.
